RUSS BEAR GROWLS DEFIANCE AT JAPAN

Leasure Crash Hearing Set for August 15

ROSS COUNTIAN HELD AS DRIVER OF DEATH CAR

Defendant Faces Charges Growing Out Of Two Traffic Deaths

UNABLE TO GIVE BOND

Prosecutor Mum On Which Of Twin Indictments Will Be Pressed

Beeman Leasure, 28 year old Ross countian, will go on trial before Judge Meeker Terwilliger on Monday, August 15, charged with second degree manslaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Crawford, of Whisler, in an automobile wreck last May 9.

Judge Terwilliger announced assignment of the Leasure trial Friday, at the same time disclosing trial dates for several other prisoners who pleaded not guilty at arraignment following the grand jury's session last week.

Prosecutor George Gerhardt did not indicate whether Leasure would be tried first for the death of Mr. Crawford or of his wife. The trials will be separate, Judge Terwilliger said. C. A. Leist will represent the Brimstone district defendant.

Leasure In Jail

Leasure is in the county jail unable to furnish bond following his denial of charges. He was driving a car, the prosecutor charges, when it collided with the automobile driven by Mr. Crawford on the Adelphi pike early in the evening of May 9. The Crawfords were returning to their home with their daughter-in-law and granddaughter after attending the Northwest Territory celebration in Circleville. Mr. Crawford died instantly and Mrs. Crawford's injuries were fatal 10 hours later.

Leasure is accused of being intoxicated at the time of the collision. Four of his brothers were with him. Norman and Denver were each fined $100 and costs for intoxication. Wesley paid a similar fine and Alonzo was released without a charge being put against him. Norman and Denver were released from the county jail Friday after serving their fines.

Davis Hearing Set

The first trial on Judge Terwilliger's docket will send James Davis, of Orient, before the court next Thursday, July 28, charged with breaking and entering the Orient Grain Co. building on April 10. He is in jail awaiting the trial.

Finley Barker, of Derby, charged with assault and battery of a fellow-prisoner in the city jail, goes on trial Aug. 1. For Aug. 2 (Continued on Page Eight)

Supposedly Happy Film Marriages Crash

CRASH of Hollywood's supposedly happy marriages is taking movie fandom by surprise. The Joan Crawford-Franchot Tone separation is the latest. Others to come to the front in the last few days are the collapse of the Lupe Velez-

Johnny Weissmuller combination and the Jobyna Ralston-Richard Arlen duo. The Arlens, with their son, were regarded among Hollywood's happiest couples.

HOPPER PLANE LANDS IN EAST

German Craft Puts Down In Bay Near Britain's Pick-a-Back

PORT WASHINGTON, N. Y., July 22—(UP)—The German catapult plane Nordmeer, making the first of 28 experimental ocean crossings scheduled by Deutsche Lufthansa this Summer, arrived here at 9:42:30 a. m. EDT today, 17 hours and 42½ minutes after leaving its mother ship off Horta, Azores, 2,397 miles away.

Capt. Joachim H. Blankenburg brought the four-engine monoplane down on Manhasset Bay, opposite the Pan-American air base, where Capt. Donald C. T. Bennett landed yesterday in the Pick-A-Back seaplane Mercury of British Imperial Airways. He had fought head winds and unfavorable weather most of the way.

Both flights marked the renewal of aerial surveys, started last year, in what has developed into an international race to start the first commercial air service over the Atlantic.

The Mercury landed at 4:08 p. m. EDT yesterday, 25 hours and eight minutes after taking the air from the back of its mother plane, the Maia, over Foyens, Ireland, and eight minutes after the Nordmeer was catapulted from the decks of the Schwabenland off Horta. The Mercury flew non-stop to Montreal and thence to Port Washington.

BRITISH KIDNAP PLOTTER DRAWS LONG SENTENCE

BIRMINGHAM, England, July 22—(UP)—John Bruce Thornton, 48, was sentenced today to seven years' penal servitude on charges of plotting last May to kidnap Lord Nuffield, wealthy British industrialist.

The plot was never carried out. An accomplice tipped off the police who seized Thornton when he approached Lord Nuffield's offices.

THREAT OF THIRD TERM SEEN IN HOPKINS' CLAIM

WASHINGTON, July 22—(UP)—Republican party leaders interpreted a statement of WPA administrator Harry L. Hopkins today as "the launching" of a Roosevelt third term movement.

Republican national committee chairman John D. M. Hamilton accused the administration of trying to perpetuate itself.

He referred to remarks made yesterday at a press conference by Hopkins who said that he believed 90 per cent of his relief workers would vote for President Roosevelt.

When asked if he meant that they would vote for Mr. Roosevelt in 1940, he laughed and refused to be drawn into a discussion of a third term.

"I'll be getting myself into trouble," he said.

The discussion developed when Hopkins was announcing a policy of work relief for southern farm laborers, which he denied had anything to do with New Deal politics.

ITALIANS OUST JEWISH AGENCY CORRESPONDENT

ROME, July 22—(UP)—The ministry of popular culture today informed Dr. Edward D. Kleiner, Rome correspondent of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency for the last 14 years, that he must leave Italy within eight days.

Reasons of a "general nature" were assigned for the order. Some observers were inclined to speculate on a possible connection between the order and the publication last week of an Italian "racial credo."

Kleiner said he had had no trouble with the government and had never been reprimanded for any of the dispatches he sent.

The first intimation he had of the order, it was said, was when the ministry of popular culture suggested yesterday that it would not be "advisable" for him to attend a dinner to the foreign press given by the governor of Rome.

CONVICT USES KNIFE IN FIGHT

"Family Quarrel" In Cell Sends One To Hospital, Other To Solitary

COLUMBUS, July 22—(UP)—As a result of what Warden J. C. Woodard described as a "family quarrel" with his cellmate, Theodore Wistner, 32, Cleveland, today lay on an Ohio penitentiary cot with a 15-inch knife wound across his lower abdomen. His condition was described as "only fair."

Wistner, the warden said, was stabbed by John Eberling, 21, also of Cleveland, during a fight in their cell in the A-B cellblock. The weapon, he said, appeared to be an old shoe knife and was about 1½ inches long. Eberling has been placed in solitary confinement.

A report by state chemists that powder contained in the bombs carried by two convicts in their attempted "break last Tuesday" was made from substances found within the prison's walls resulted today in an order by Warden Woodard that close check be kept of these materials—principally charcoal and sulphur—in the future.

The report was made by the state health department laboratories at Ohio State university.

CROWN PRINCE ENDS AMERICAN VISIT TONIGHT

NEW YORK, July 22—(UP)—Crown Prince Gustav Adolf of Sweden will end his 26-day visit in the United States tonight after a farewell speech over a nationwide radio hookup.

He sails for home at midnight on the Swedish-American liner Gripsholm, accompanied by his son, Prince Bertil, and the Crown Princess Louise.

The speech will be broadcast by the Columbia broadcasting system from 7 to 7:15 a. m. (EDT). The royal party arrived July 27 and attended various celebrations commemorating the 300th anniversary of the founding of the first Swedish settlement in America.

HULL DEMANDS SHOWDOWN ON MEX OIL GRAB

Cardenas Draws Scolding For Placing Good Neighbor Policy In Jeopardy

WOULD LET COURT DECIDE

Secretary Of State Thinks Honest Effort To Pay Has Not Been Made

WASHINGTON, July 22—(UP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull demanded a show-down with Mexico today on the payment for expropriated land and oil properties owned by Americans.

In a formal note handed to Mexican Ambassador D. Francisco Castillo Najera, Hull proposed that an international court of arbitration be established to determine whether the Mexican government shall pay for the expropriated property, how much should be paid, and the terms of the payment. He made this proposal under the terms of a general treaty of arbitration signed at Washington in January 1929, to which Mexico, the United States, and most other American republics are parties.

Government Accused

Hull tacitly accused the Mexican government of having failed to make an honest effort to pay for seized property, and scolded the regime of President Lazaro Cardenas for jeopardizing not only the good neighbor policy of this government, but also the whole realm of amicable international relations.

Specifically, his note dealt only with farm lands, owned by U. S. citizens, which have been seized by the Mexican government since 1915. He said that some 161 moderate sized properties had been expropriated between 1915 and 1927, and that not a single claim on these properties has yet been paid. Since 1927 additional properties, which Hull valued at a total of $10,132,388, have been seized. None of these has yet been paid for, he said.

Oil Not Mentioned

No mention was made of American oil properties values at approximately $200,000,000, which were expropriated last spring. Diplomatic observers believed, however, that the note laid the ground work for similar action on behalf of the oil companies.

Hull's stiffly-worded note and the action he proposed surprised diplomatic quarters. Reports from (Continued on Page Eight)

COX EXPECTED TO TAKE STUMP FOR SAWYER

BY UNITED PRESS
Former Governor James M. Cox, Dayton publisher and one of the most influential "behind the scenes" Democratic leaders in Ohio, was expected today to reinforce his personal endorsement of Charles Sawyer for the gubernatorial nomination by active campaigning.

Sawyer forces were jubilant over the personal approval given by Cox, Democratic presidential nominee in 1920 and one of the two men to hold the office of Ohio governor three terms.

Cox's statement that he expects "to have something to say to the Democracy of Ohio before the primary" was interpreted as an indication that he make at least one and possibly more campaign speeches for Sawyer before the election.

The Cox endorsement of Sawyer was contained in a letter read at a Dayton political rally last night. Cox said he would support Sawyer "heartily" and praised the candidate for a campaign "based upon the high purpose of official housecleaning."

Corrigan Refuses To Commercialize Flight; Accepts Dinner Offer

DUBLIN, July 22—(UP)—Douglas Corrigan, worried for the welfare of his $900 "crate" which he shipped home yesterday, said today that he was "shocked" by the suggestion that he go on the stage. He continued to turn down many money-making offers, but one offer which the Irish-American flier will accept when he gets back home—no money involved—was an invitation to a corned beef dinner to be given by the Chicago "Corrigan society" in his honor.

Another one he accepted was to lead a parade in his honor through Brooklyn borough New York City starting from Floyd Bennett airport where he took off for Los Angeles and landed in Ireland.

Most of the offers came from the United States. One would have paid him $15,000 for a 500-word magazine article entitled "Why Young Men Should Fly." "This would be commercializing my flight and I'm not going to do it," Corrigan said.

Refuses To Write

Then, referring to general newspaper and magazine offers, Corrigan said:

"They are looking for exclusive stories and offering to pay plenty of money. But the people should get the news without fellows like me having to sell it."

He was extremely annoyed by reports that he had received $2,000 for a radio broadcast to the United States and reiterated that "money has no interest for me."

Corrigan has received numerous offers from motion picture firms. It was understood that Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, 20th Century-Fox films and Warner brothers have made offers through Dublin agents, but he turned down all.

The "wrong direction" flier also has received many offers for public appearances in the United States. One was from the Irish counties association of New York to attend a banquet in his honor. If he accepts, the presidential suite of a New York hotel will be reserved for him. It was understood that at least seven United States cities have offered him their "keys," including New York and Los Angeles.

Happy on Visit

Corrigan said he was "not particularly" anxious to go back home because he was enjoying himself "tremendously."

He said that he would go to London on Monday or Tuesday to visit a number of airplane factories and "make a general tour" (Continued on Page Eight)

U. S. OIL TANKER BLASTED, SUNK BY JAP PLANE

SHANGHAI, July 22—(UP)—A Chinese news agency reported today that an American oil tanker had been bombed and sunk by a Japanese plane.

The United States embassy in Hankow, the United States consulate general here, naval officials and foreign oil companies were unable to confirm the report.

The agency said the tanker was sunk while Japanese planes were raiding along the Yangtze river near Kutang, above Kiukiang, about 13 miles from Hankow.

The United States gunboat Monocacy was standing by at that point along with the Standard Oil Co., tanker Melyun.

Japanese planes again raided Hankow, the provisional capital which the Chinese government was expected to abandon soon. Nine bombers dropped 40 bombs on the airbase but most of them missed their mark.

Independent reports showed that the Japanese were making no progress in their drive up the Yangtze. The Chinese have stopped all advances south of Kiukiang.

DANISH SHIP BOMBED

LONDON, July 22—(UP)—Lloyds reported from Marseilles today that the Danish steamer Bodil had been bombed and sunk by a seaplane off the Spanish coast. Members of the Bodil's crew were picked up by the British steamer Shropshire.

TENSION WITH TOKYO HOISTED TO HIGH DEGREE

Moscow Firmly Refuses To Withdraw Troops From Disputed Territory

NIPPONESE PLAN ACTION

Necessary Protective Steps Will Be Taken, Declares Island Spokesman

TOKYO, July 22—(UP)—Japan, demanding the withdrawal of Soviet troops from disputed Manchukuo border territory, is prepared "to take the necessary steps," a foreign office spokesman declared today after the cabinet had met to consider the situation. Russia has refused to withdraw.

Japan considers she has the right to act as protector of Manchukuo, the spokesman declared.

He said Russia apparently has challenged Japan in occupying a hill near Changkufeng in the Vladivostok region, which Japan claims in Manchukuan territory.

Russia must assume complete responsibility for what may happen, the spokesman said, adding:

"The Soviet has thrown another stone in the relations between the two countries at this juncture when relations are delicate."

Japan Plans Action

Japan is naturally in a position to take the necessary steps because she is responsible for the defense of Manchukuo, the spokesman said.

Reiterating that the hill is in Manchukuan territory, the spokesman cited the fact that regular Manchu religious ceremonies are held there every June and September. He also recalled recent Soviet assertions favoring maintenance of the border status quo.

Reds "Unreasonable"

With regard to the strain in relations, the spokesman said:

"Even under such circumstances, Manchukuo and Japan have watched and waited patiently, hoping that the Soviets would be reasonable in dealing with the case."

Nipponese Ready

"However, Japan herewith declares her readiness to take the necessary steps and proclaims her right to take such measures."

Japan, he said, demands Soviet withdrawal from Changkufeng and a return to the border status quo. He urged the Soviet to consider it seriously.

The spokesman asserted the Japanese protest offers a reasonable proposal for restoration of the status quo and therefore the Soviet responsibility is grave because Maxim Litvinov, foreign commissar, refused to listen to the Japanese proposal.

Prior to the spokesman's statement, the cabinet met to consider.

BRITISH KING CITES BINDING TIE WITH PARIS

PARIS, July 22—(UP)—Eternal ties bind Britain and France in friendship, King George VI said today in unveiling a monument at Villers-Bretonneux to 10,885 Australian war dead whose bodies were never found.

The king ended his four-day state visit to France at a solemn ceremony on the battlefield where on April 24, 1918, the Australians helped to turn back the last great German offensive.

The King and President Albert Lebrun of France stood side by side on the sleepy hillside near Amiens and proclaimed the unity of their two peoples.

"We stand on the soil of a great people to whom the events which we recall bind us with ties the years cannot weaken," the king said.

BURNS KILL WOMAN

DAYTON, July 22—(UP)—Mrs. William Crutchfield, 26, died last night of burns received while cleaning a mattress with gasoline.

HOISTED INCOME TAX UNLIKELY, TREASURER SAYS

WASHINGTON July 22—(UP)—A spokesman for secretary of the treasury Henry Morgenthau Jr. said today it was "very unlikely" that recommendations would be made to the next congress for increasing income tax rates or lowering personal income tax exemptions.

Commenting on a remark at a press conference yesterday by acting Secretary Rosewell Magill that the question of lowering exemptions was being studied, the spokesman cautioned against interpreting it as a hint that the treasury favors such a step.

"We have been making a study of that and other tax matters for many years purely as part of our routine," he said. "In doing so we are merely keeping this data up to date in the event congress asks for it."

Ashville K of P Lodge Improving Building

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Russell Hoover is reroofing the Knights of Pythias building. The ground floor of this structure is occupied by the Kroger Company and the second story is occupied by the K. of P. lodge organization. This lodge was once a prosperous one with a membership of about 240. Mark off the two and the 40 left will equal the number of members at the present time, so a member told us today. The lodge was instituted in October of 1892, near 46 years ago with twenty-five charter members. We now have quite a number of the names of these charter signers and hope to complete the list within a few days when it will be given.

The local school board has had no easy task in expecting a warranty deed to S. F. Hinkle in the purchase of the old Long street school building. A survey has been made by surveyor Jesse Baum and who is also member of the school board. The title will be a perfectly good one when these lot lines are once permanently established. The survey has already been completed and every lot owner from Hook's Corner Store north to, and including the former school grounds, knows exactly the size of their holdings and where lot lines are.

As "Referee of the Court" and all around "nose sticker" in" of everybody's business, and especially "third degree giver" to all strangers, we think we have a perfectly good right to suggest to anybody whose business he thinks it is to do it, to get a couple white painted lines, clear and plain, across both Main and Long street at the intersection of these streets. And also while we are "giving orders" a couple more lines should cross Long street on either side of the traffic light. Both these jobs we have mentioned are inexpensive and there are many of our people, we feel sure, will be pleased to have this traffic improvement made. Hope the mayor and members of council will receive this suggestion in the same spirit in which it is given.

The Ashville and Lockbourne Lutheran Brotherhoods held a joint meeting at the home of Edward Kuhlwein near Duval Wednesday evening. A good attendance is reported and a most interesting talk was given by Rev. Sheatsley of Columbus, who is home from India for a rest period. He is a missionary to that country.

Walter Raymon has returned home from a visit with his brother, Elmer Raymon, at Lakewood, a suburban village of Cleveland. The Lakewood brother was in 1883 and 1884 at the head of the Madison township high school, being its first superintendent. And this particular school was the first of its kind in Pickaway county. Walden Plum, insurance writer, Circleville, and a Madison township product, goes one better and says it was the first of its kind in the state.

W. J. Harding, an experienced watch and clock repair man and jeweler of Circleville, removed his equipment from that place to Ashville yesterday, occupying the Mrs. Ett mercantile room on Long street, which was formerly occupied by the late Willis J. Ett in the same line of business.

FARMERS AWAIT INFORMATION ON WHEAT ACREAGE

Pickaway county wheat farmers are anxiously awaiting information from federal crop control authorities which will tell them how many acres of wheat they will be permitted to plant for next Summer's harvest.

Agriculture administration offices in the Farm Bureau have not been informed of Pickaway county's allotment. Paul Mattheas, secretary of the county A.A.A. board, went to Columbus Thursday evening to seek information from state A.A.A. officials, but it was not available.

Asked Friday what the county's allotted number of acres would be for wheat, Mattheas said: "I wish I knew. I've had a hundred calls in the last two days from counties who would like to know the answer."

Mattheas and his office aides were checking figures Friday to determine how much wheat counties are harvesting this year.

Ohio will be permitted to plant 1,654,847 acres in 1939 compared with a 2,415,000 estimated acreage in 1938 and 2,225,448 the average acreage from 1928 to 1937. The state office is expected to break down the Ohio figure to provide the county allotments.

The federal A.A.A. is determined to keep the nation's figure within 55,000,000 acres in 1939 in an effort to prevent accumulation of greater surpluses of the grain.

Kansas will receive the largest allotment, 11,067,349 acres. This is more than 6,000,000 acres below the 17,453,000 seeded for the bumper crop now being harvested.

NEW HOLLAND'S PHONE SERVICE SET FOR CHANGE

Dial System Installed And To Go In Operation
Saturday Night

$70,000 EXPENDITURE

Jeffersonville, Bloomingburg
Also Are Included In Improvement

New Holland telephone users, and those in Jeffersonville and Bloomingburg, Fayette county, will find their service revolutionized Saturday at 10 p. m. when the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. cuts a new dial system into service.

Final tests of all phones in the three villages were being made this week in preparation for the change of service which will put the three towns on a par with the modern dial system in use in larger cities throughout the country.

Representatives of the Bell Co. have visited each telephone subscriber in the district instructing them concerning use of the new phones. Continuous service will be available during the cut-in, Fred G. Rost, Washington C. H., commercial manager for the company said. After the dial conversions Saturday night all Ohio Bell telephones in the district will be on a dial basis. Washington C. H. has had dials for many years and Milledgeville has been enjoying dial service for more than a year.

The total cost to furnish the communities with dial phone service, Rost said, approximated $70,000. Expenditures in the New Holland office were $20,000, in Jeffersonville $15,000 and Bloomingburg $20,000. Additional expenses totalling $11,000 were necessary in the Washington C. H. office to equip that exchange to serve as a master office for the three new dial exchanges.

All long distance telephone calls will be handled in Washington C. H.

CITY DOWNPOUR PUTS CRUSHER ON HEAT WAVE

Circleville experienced one of the heaviest rains of the summer, Thursday afternoon, when nearly a half inch was recorded on Dr. H. R. Clarke's weather gauge in less than 30 minutes. The actual reading was .44 of an inch.

The downpour came shortly after 4 o'clock. Streets and gutters were filled and in some parts of city sidewalks were flooded. The service department was kept busy answering calls to various intersections where traffic was impaired because sewers were unable to handle the rush of water.

The downpour was centered in Circleville, several communities in outlying districts reporting that they had little rain.

Thursday's high temperature was 84 degrees, the mercury falling to 68 during the night and early morning.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU BY BOB BURNS

I want to tell you this writin' business ain't as easy as I thought it was gonna be. Every once in a while I get a letter from a reader that got an entirely different meaning from my article from what I intended. You can't just keep writin' day in and day out without bein' misunderstood by somebody.

I knew a natural born poet who us'ta get out alone and find himself without any notebook or paper but when he got an inspiration, he just had'ta write his poem down on somethin'. One day he got a note from his washerwoman that said "My husband is very jealous and I'm gonna have'ta give up doing your washing if you don't quit writin' poems on your cuffs."

Famed Evangelist At Annual U. B. Assembly

Excellent attendance and inspiring services indicate to persons attending the United Brethren camp meeting at Stoutsville that the annual Ohio assembly will be one of the most successful in recent years.

The Oliver E. Williams evangelistic party of Pittsburgh, with the Rev. Dewey Whitwell of Tennessee, are the camp leaders. The Rev. O. E. Williams, Ph. D. and D. D., one of the best known evangelists of the United Brethren denomination, is attending the camp for the nineteenth time. Mrs. Angie M. Williams, the evangelist's wife, is in charge of song services. She is a graduate of a prominent school of music and a song writer. J. R. MacMurray is serving as instrumentalist during the services and Moring Swart is the pianist.

The Rev. Mr. Whitwell is an evangelist of the Tennessee conference.

Friday was missionary day with representatives of the various missionary societies being enrolled. The address in the afternoon was by Mrs. J. Hal Smith. Dr. Williams is in the program Friday evening, his subject to be "No King Caesar".

Dr. Williams will speak Sunday morning at 10:30 and Sunday evening at 7:30 with Dr. Whitwell speaking in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

The camp continues until July 31 with three daily evangelistic services. The Rev. M. R. White of Chillicothe, formerly of the Circleville church, is campground president.

At a "different" dog show in Barking, England, only mongrels were permitted.

and afternoon baptismal service at the Salt Creek Valley Pilgrim church, four miles southeast of Laurelville on Route 56, Sunday. There will be special music and a basket dinner at the noon hour. The Rev. Herbert Taylor is pastor of the church.

OPEN LETTERS

TO MAYOR CADY

EXECUTIVE: Even a threat of a police patrol appearing on N. Court street has helped reduce the speed of automobiles on the busy thoroughfare. Your instructions to police to order all speeders into court has helped to reduce the dangers prevalent on the street. I am heartily in favor of your suggestion that a traffic light be erected at Northridge road and Court street in an effort to reduce the speed of cars coming into Circleville. Council should do something about this suggestion, and NOW, before a fatality occurs. I believe that money would be available for a three-way light from the service department's gasoline tax and street repair fund, so that the city would not have to dig into its already-depleted treasury for the necessary finances. The suggestion in council the other evening that the safety director visit the various schools to determine if proper safety signals are installed is timely. School will be starting in less than two months and, if at all possible, all zones should be properly marked.

CIRCUITEER.

TO SERVICE DEPARTMENT

OFFICIALS: A complete check-up of Court street from one city limit to the other might save Circleville a lot of money and much discomfort in the near future. Several holes have appeared in the pavement. Bricks have started to cave in at several places along the much-travelled highway, and more will certainly be forced out of place unless something is done about the street. The highway was repaved several years ago by W. P. A. and the abandoned traction lines removed. If you wish to keep Court street satisfactory for the heavy daily traffic that passes over it, you had better make an inspection tour at an early date. You deserve congratulations for the splendid improvements made on several of the city's streets. Speed is needed to assure work on all that need it before cold weather arrives again. Streets need constant attention to keep them in the proper condition. Failure to check over them at various times means great expense at a later date. Please get your workmen and equipment into Circleville's northend residential district as soon as you can. This community that should be a show place is sorely handicapped by lack of proper roadways.

TO MOTORISTS

DRIVERS: Do not leave your automobile keys in ignition switches when you park your cars. The police department has been kept busy in the last few days checking up on several youngsters who have been taking keys and other articles from automobiles just for the fun of it. Articles left in sight in parked cars sometimes prove tempting to youths, resulting in their theft. When you park your automobiles why not lock the ignition, then lock the car doors as you leave? You will save yourself inconvenience, save the police the trouble of searching for your property, and keep some of the city's youngsters from becoming petty thieves.

CIRCUITEER.

TO PARENTS

FOLK: School will be starting before long, and I know that many of the city's children have not had the opportunity to participate in worthwhile recreation programs during the Summer. W. P. A.-supervised playgrounds are available in all parts of the city. Paid employees are present at all hours of the day to supervise boys and girls who are engaged in wholesome play. Why not send your children to one of these playgrounds where they may meet others and at the same time obtain the kind of exercise a growing boy or girl requires. The playgrounds are provided for your children, please take advantage of them.

CIRCUITEER.

TO FARM FRIENDS

FOLK: Staking is progressing on the rural electrification project in Pickaway county, and it behooves all residents of Pickaway, Saltcreek, Washington and Walnut townships to have their homes wired as early as possible so they will be ready to take advantage of electrical service when power is available. The contractor in charge of construction of power lines has said that poles will be erected and lines strung within the next 90 days. Any day after that time the switch may be thrown sending electricity coursing through the wires to bring conveniences to countians that they never before have had an opportunity to enjoy. Many Fairfield countians, in fact about 800 homes, are already using electrical devices made possible by installation of the lines. I hope that all who possibly can will have their homes included among those to be serviced. Many other townships are awaiting the time when power will be available all over the county in addition to those few listed for the initial work.

CIRCUITEER.

TO W. P. A. OFFICIALS

FRIENDS: Sidewalk project supervisors should be more careful about precautions taken to prevent accidents during the night at places where work is being done. Injuries are possible unless the repair scenes are better lighted. I hope you have much success in your sidewalk repair because this project is one of the most worthy attempted in Pickaway county. Williamsport is awaiting the day when its walks and gutters will be modernized. Several other county villages would like to have their streets repaired, too. Please, though, have your projects well-lighted at night to prevent mishaps.

CIRCUITEER.

TO COUNCILMEN

AUTHORITIES: You have voted a total of $31,000 in bond issues to be balloted on in the August 9 election, but you have not taken any steps to gain support for the issues. Many persons know that Circleville needs a city hall addition large enough to house a jail, garage and health offices; others are aware that Berger hospital needs an addition, and others know that Circleville's uptown lighting system is not at all sufficient and that boulevard lamps are needed, but there are others who are willing to go along, accepting whatever may come and caring nothing about it. Since the three issues are being sponsored by council, I believe that the organization should get busy in an effort to obtain backing for them. The present city jail has been condemned numerous times. It is not a healthy place and should be eliminated once and for all. The hospital, physicians who are in contact with it every day say, should have a modern maternity ward. The boulevard lighting system should be erected as soon as possible. I hope council will swing into action to gain support for the three questions.

World At A Glance

THE NATIONS that have not gone to war already have won, world observers are declaring now.

What is meant?
Well, take the case of Italy: Ethiopia has been a serious drain, and the Fascist-backed Franco still has not conquered Spain after two years of terrible toll.

Germany likewise has been sorely disappointed in Spain.

Surely if Italy and Germany together could not win Spain, what could they do against really powerfully equipped nations? Such is the reasoning.

As for Japan—its China campaign has become a debacle.

Surely, Russia can sit back and laugh—if one can laugh at tragedy which snuffs out hundreds of thousands of lives.

IN THE MEANTIME

Now, see what has been going on, in the meantime:

Great Britain has rearmaged extensively. It has billions against the other nations' tens of millions, in Europe.

The United States has a naval program that is stupendous, that could not possibly be undertaken by any other nation except Great Britain.

France has had a breathing spell—used to advantage.

And the South American nations seem definitely to have turned their backs on Naziism—and to lean toward a Pan-Americanism. This is no year of which Mussolini, Hitler and the Japanese militarists can boast. Their security marts tell the tale.

DANGEROUS

Nevertheless, it is an uneasy world. What will it do with all these tremendous armaments? Into whose hands will they fall?

The present administrators barely will last another decade—then what type of men will succeed—men who will bring about the holocaust, or men who will strive for reason, understanding, sanity, internationalism rather than mad nationalism?

Even as victory comes today through peace, it will tomorrow and the age after tomorrow. What would Japan give today NOT to have gone into China? But, alas, that gives no succor to the devastated Chinese. Nor will Spain's slain youth come back to life.

Thus, we are told, we arm to frighten would-be aggressor nations into sanity.

READ THIS FIRST:

Determined to show Dr. Julian Paige, the man she is in love with, that she can make her own way in the world, Noel Shynick, wealthy society girl, burns her bridges behind her, moves to a rooming house, and, for lack of anything better, obtains a job as a taxi dancer at the Peacock, run by Nick Luigi. She is living with a girl named Laurie Evans, whom she met in the park, and who is a cashier at the restaurant which Julian patronizes. Noel feels she has a dangerous rival in Ruth Chester, Julian's pretty nurse. During an outing in the country, Julian tells Noel he wants to kiss her but doesn't think he should. One evening at the Peacock Luigi tries to kiss Noel. She slaps his face and threatens to quit. Noel gets a job in a laundry but loses it after three days because she doesn't work fast enough. Still dancing at the Peacock Noel meets a young man named Chris Landers, whose refinement makes him stand out from the others she has danced with there. Noel is happy when Chris returns to the Peacock a week later.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 18

THE NEXT night, before going to the Peacock, Noel had a simple dinner of soup and a sandwich at a little place on Main street. But her appetite, which had been so lusty for a while, now seemed to have deserted her. She managed the soup, but the sandwich was left untasted, although she knew she should have eaten it regardless of whether she wanted it or not. Dancing was strenuous exercise.

Promptly at the hour she was at the Peacock, hoping that Chris would be there. The hours didn't seem near so long when he came. She slipped into the brocade and the new slippers, which did not feel very comfortable because they were stiff. Noel hoped they wouldn't hurt her feet. If she had only thought, she would have realized that it was better to get at least a half size larger when buying cheap shoes. But it was too late to think of that now.

There were not so many dancers at the Peacock tonight, and Noel found herself actually sitting out a few dances, a fact for which she was grateful indeed because the new sandals really were hurting her feet.

Many of the girls were sitting out tonight. The tables lined against the walls. Most of them were a great deal more friendly now. Even the tall dark girl who had been so catty at times often gave Noel a friendly smile.

Maida was back tonight. She came up and stood for a moment beside Noel. There was a thick coating of rouge on her rather thin hollow cheeks. She had been sick, she said, and terribly afraid Nick wouldn't let her come back. But he had.

"Say, kid, how on earth do you do it?" she asked.

"Do what?" Noel asked puzzled. "You know, make 'em come back again and again and beg for dances. And you even know how to handle Nick, and tell him where to get off, and he likes it. And that young fellow, he's a swell or something—anybody can see that he's nuts about you," she broke off. Then exclaimed, "Look, there he is!"

A rush of warmth came to Noel's heart as she looked up and saw Chris standing there in the middle of the floor, his eyes searching for her. In another minute he was moving toward her.

Maida smiled and walked on.

Chris had a long string of tickets, and the thought came into Noel's mind that perhaps Nick wouldn't mind it if she danced a number of times with Chris tonight since there wasn't a very big crowd. Then she and Chris were dancing. And he was looking down at her from his tall height. "Haven't been able to get you off my mind. The way you dance, the way you look, your pretty gold hair and blue eyes—everything about you. 'Fraid I've got an awful crush on you, sweetheart."

"I'm glad—you came back, Chris," Noel murmured. "I was hoping you would."

"Did you miss me?" he asked.

Chris was waiting . . . and so was Julian.

"A lot," Noel assented. "Well, then," Chris went on in his blithe boyish voice, "you won't be missing me any more. Not when there's a chance to see you and dance with you. Besides there's a special reason why I've been thinking of you—he broke off then, and his boyish face darkened. "But first, you must tell me something. Is there anything between you and this Luigi fellow. Tell me the truth."

"Of course there's not," Noel exclaimed quickly. "I dislike him, and I'm getting away from this place before long."

Chris almost stopped dancing at that. His arms held her a little more closely. "And am I glad of that? Now, listen, I shouldn't be surprised if I can't find you a way to get away from here. I may be in position to make you an offer—"

Noel gave him a quick questioning look. "Oh, I mean, in a perfectly nice way," he hastened to say. "I'll tell you about it when—my plans are better formulated."

They had drinks then, and danced another dance. Then Chris beckoned to a number of the dancers and bought drinks around. He certainly didn't mind spending money, and seemed to have plenty of it, which was possibly the reason Nick had not again interfered with his taking up Noel's time.

But even at that, Noel thought it best to dance with some of the others who were asking her for dances, even though she hated herself for her weakness in trying to keep Nick in a good humor. And then she was dancing again with Chris and enjoying it so much because their steps matched so beautifully. And Chris wouldn't let anybody cut in, though several tried. "Ever do any professional dancing?" he asked.

Noel said she hadn't. "Takes an awful lot of energy and you've got to be strong."

"Are you a professional?" Noel asked. She felt that Chris might easily be from the beautiful, graceful way he danced.

Chris smiled and admitted that he was. And then went on with his first train of thought. "But I don't suppose it takes much more, if any more, energy dancing professionally than it does in a place like this."

"I don't believe it would," Noel said with the knowledge born of her experience. "You see, you have to dance with so many different kinds of dancers. Some of them can dance, and lots of them are rank amateurs. And there are so many cut-ins, and while the dances are short, the intermissions are shorter."

"You can't tell me. I know it's strenuous work," Chris said. "But in a way it's absolutely splendid practice. And I'm really glad because—" But Chris didn't finish for Nick was standing there with another man he had brought to claim a dance with Noel. This was one of the men who had tried to cut in, and he gave Chris a look of malice when he put his arms around Noel and danced away with her.

"That blond fellow can't have everything his way, you know," he said to Noel.

She didn't even look up at him, and didn't consider it necessary to answer. She was paid to dance, but her conversation was extra.

When the dance was finished, Noel's partner looked down upon her a little ruefully. "Did I make you angry?"

Noel shook her head. Then said apologetically, "I'm sorry. I have on a pair of new slippers and they're rather tight."

The man bowed politely and went away. Then Noel saw Chris at the tables, buying drinks again. It occurred to her that he too was trying to keep Nick in a good humor.

He waited until Noel had finished several other dances, then quite coolly took possession of her. As soon as they danced off, he said, "Say, sweetheart, when will this thing be over? Does it go on forever and forever?"

"We close a little after 1," she told him.

Chris looked at his watch. "Then it won't be long now. And of course I'm going to take you home. Got things to talk over."

Noel nodded. She wasn't feeling half as tired as she thought she would be, even though the shoes were too tight. But Chris' presence was stimulating. Also the cocktails she had had gave her an artificial strength.

Noel, of course, had no idea what had happened at the De Luxe about 10, just when Laurie was getting ready to leave.

Julian had come in and asked her again about Noel. Then he wanted to know where to find her. Quite innocently Laurie told him that she was dancing at the Peacock where she had been for quite some time. And that the place would close late.

So Noel, all unsuspecting, was dancing the last dance with Chris and laughing and feeling a little happier than usual.

She left Chris waiting and went in the dressing room to get out of the hateful brocade. When she came out, Chris was waiting at the entrance. And so was Julian, his eyes very dark and angry.

How Insanity Is Cured by Shock Therapy

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

AT THE CONVENTION of the American Medical association at San Francisco recently many advances in medical science were demonstrated.

In the articles in the next few days I shall describe the subjects that attracted my own attention. The treatment of certain forms of insanity by shock therapy was the subject of Dr. Ernst Gellhorn's paper. This is quite new, and except that its value has been demonstrated over and over by actual tests, it is so surprising as hardly to be believable.

The cases in which the treatment works best are those of split personality, particularly in young people. The drugs used are insulin surgeons would have looked on with favor a matter of 10 years ago.

But experience has proved that with proper care this injection treatment gives good results and saves the necessity for an operation with the attendant discomfords.

QUESTIONS FROM READERS

Septagenarian: "Will you tell me whether rather severe cramping of the muscles of the feet and calf of the legs is merely a concomitant of advanced age or is it a symptom calling for specific medical attention?"

Answer: The condition is called "intermittent claudication." It is caused by thickening of the arteries of the legs and as such is a concomitant of advanced age. Treatment is not very successful. Rest, with elevation of the feet, and heat, give as much relief as anything.

A. J.: "My eyebrows are naturally thick, so in order to improve my appearance I tweeze them. I am told that this will affect my sight. Is there any truth in this?"

Answer: None whatever. It will do no harm of any kind.

New and Tasty Dishes Are Made With Carrots

THERE'S BEEN a great deal of talk lately about the healthful and other valuable properties of the carrot. There are so many ways of serving carrots. And this versatile vegetable appears not only as a table treat, but even in preserves and desserts.

Minted carrots is the sort of dish that is at its best at a company meal. It calls for three cups shredded carrots, one-half cup hot water, two tablespoons sugar, two tablespoons light corn syrup, two tablespoons mint leaves, two tablespoons each glycerine and butter, and one-quarter cup water. Place shredded carrots with hot water and cook until tender and moisture is absorbed. Make a syrup of the sugar, corn syrup and mint leaves, to which glycerine has been added, the butter and remaining water. Pour syrup over carrots and cook uncovered for 10 to 12 minutes.

Carrot-Potato Dish
Carrot-potato surprise is another of those gala dishes. Ingredients include six medium-sized potatoes, two tablespoons melted butter, two tablespoons flour, one and one-half cups milk, one egg, two tablespoons glycerine plus enough to rub potatoes, two cups diced, cooked carrots, salt and pepper to taste. Wash and rub potatoes well with glycerine and bake in medium oven till done. Melt butter. Remove from heat and blend in flour and milk. Return to heat and stir until mixture begins to thicken. Add glycerine. Continue cooking, adding salt and pepper to taste, until thick and smooth. Remove from heat. Beat egg and add to sauce. Add diced, cooked carrots. When potatoes are done, cut off tops and remove potato pulp. Mash potato pulp, adding melted butter, salt, pepper and heated milk. Fill potatoes to shells with diced carrot mixture, and flute potatoes around edges of potato shells. Return to oven and bake until carrot mixture is set and fluted potatoes are browned.

Carrot Marmalade
Carrot marmalade is a delicious and healthful conserve. Ingredients include one and one-half cups shredded carrots, three cups granulated sugar, two tablespoons glycerine, one-half cup lemon juice and one tablespoon lemon rind. Steam carrots until tender and mix with lemon rind to which glycerine has been well mixed. Add remaining ingredients and cook over low heat, stirring frequently, until mixture is of wanted consistency (about 50 minutes).

CONTRACT BRIDGE

BE READY TO CHANGE
DON'T EVER be too stuck on a good plan. New evidence may reveal the fact that your plan has slight chance for success. If you see that running your own suit is hopeless, you may make out better by keeping the enemy from running his suit. In brief, be ever ready to change your plan if that becomes advisable.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)
When South opened the bidding here with 1-No Trump, North responded with 2-No Trump and South went to 3-No Trump.
The club 4 was West's lead against this contract. Dummy played the 2 and East the K. South allowed this to hold and the J was returned, followed by the 5 to South's A. The diamonds A and K were cashed and a diamond trick given up. East then played the spade A for the fourth trick, hoping to get some encouraging signal from West. When this did not occur, he switched to a heart and South took the remainder of the tricks.

When East returned the club J after winning the first trick, West could have set the contract by overtaking the J with the Q and switching to the heart J. With no entry for his club suit when set up, it was far better to try for tricks in some other direction.

DODGERS DROP DAFFINESS AND PLAY REAL BALL

Brooklyn Now Making Best Showing In National—Win 8 Out Of 10

NEW YORK, July 22—(UP)—Don't say anything, because the Brooklyn Dodgers might remember they are the original daffiness boys and realize they are playing the best ball in the National league today.

Down through the years the Dodgers, who were first nicknamed the trolley dodgers when Brooklyn was leading the world in street car installation 50 years ago, have furnished the comic relief for the major leagues. They took pride in their role, clowning, playing and loafing their way through ball games. The fact that Brooklyn has stood for these zany so long lends vivid substantiation to the statement that it is the best baseball city in America.

There is an old saying that "once a Dodger, always a Dodger," but when Manager Burleigh Grimes took over Brooklyn management at the start of the 1937 season, said "nuts, I was a Dodger once and they never hooked me up with all that nonsense. The daffiness boys are dead. Acrobatics, clowning, playing and loafing are strictly out."

It has been a tougher job than old Burleigh anticipated, making a hustling, fighting ball club of the gowanus gamblers. At last, however, it looks as though he is beginning to make a start in this monumental undertaking.

Grimes' men have won eight out of their last 10 games—all against first division clubs. They were in seventh place on July 12 before they knocked the New York Giants out of the league lead. This victory pulled them into sixth ahead of St. Louis. They moved into Pittsburgh and took two out of three from the Pirates who had followed New York into first place. The only game they dropped there was an 11-inning affair in which the deciding run was scored on a wild pitch. Cincinnati was knocked out of third place when the Dodgers won three straight from them. And against the Chicago Cubs Brooklyn won two out of three to climb ahead of Boston into fifth place.

The one they lost to the Cubs was a 5-2 decision in the first game of a doubleheader yesterday. They were held to five hits by Clay Bryant, but came back to score a 1-0 shut out behind the two hit pitching of the veteran Luke Hamlin. Dolph Camilli's home run in the second inning was the only tally of that game.

The Pirates nosed the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4 to hold their 1/2 game lead over the Giants. Lee Handley's triple that cleared the loaded bases in the ninth was the winning punch. Th Giants kept pace by beating St. Louis 5-2 behind the five-hit hurling of Carl Hubbell. Cincinnati-Boston were not scheduled.

EASTERN RACE WINNER DRIVEN BY HARRY SHORT

Harry Short, county native and brother of Auditor Forrest Short, piloted Gaylakinnie, speedy bay gelding, to first place in the 2:01 trot at Old Orchard, Maine, Thursday in Grand Circuit events. Gaylakinnie, owned by C. H. Bowen, Columbus, finished seventh in the first heat but speeded on top in the second and third heats.

His winning times were 2:02 1/2 and 2:04 1/2.

Short drove the Duke of York to second money in the two-year-old pace for a $1,000 purse and had Blanche Hanover in fourth place in the first heat for the two year old trot $1,500 purse when rain halted the schedule.

Tuesday: Circleville Oils vs. Cain's food market.

Wednesday: Bronzville Jollies vs. Glitt's food market.

Thursday: Blue Ribbon Dairy vs. Eshelman Feeds.

Friday: Purina Feeds vs. Cain's food market.

Detroit's hard-hitting catcher, Rudy York, was hit on the side of the head by a pitched ball and will be out of the game several days, although preliminary examination disclosed no fractures. X-ray pictures were taken last night and will be studied further today.

SENTIMENT SOLIDIFYING IN FAVOR OF CONSOLIDATION OF SCHOOLS

PETITIONS FOR MERGER SIGNED BY MAJORITY

Citizens Of Laurelville And Adelphi Communities Almost Unanimous

SIX PAPERS CIRCULATED

Sounding Of Opinion, Has Not Yet Extended Into Rural Areas

Citizens of Laurelville and Adelphi communities are almost unanimously in favor of combining their high school districts with Saltcreek township, under a plan proposed by the state department of education.

The trend of opinion was disclosed Friday when Dr. C. T. Grattidge, president of the Laurelville-Perry board in Hocking county, said that only a few persons had declined to sign the petitions being circulated in Laurelville. "No petition work has been done in the rural area," Dr. Grattidge said, "but we have been doing a lot of talking and I believe the Perry township residents are favorable."

Mrs. E. Hemmeger, wife of the Adelphi physician, said that persons circulating petitions in her village had had excellent success. "We have not found a person who has not agreed that the consolidation should be approved."

Six petitions are being circulated in Adelphi but no check has been made to determine the exact number of signers. Petitioners have been given until Sept. 1 to file their names. Seventy-five percent of the voters in the various districts must sign the petitions to make it mandatory for the county boards of education to transfer the districts into the new unit. A sign-up of 51 percent would mean that the county board "may" transfer the district.

Saltcreek township residents, who have not yet been asked to sign petitions, appear in favor of the consolidation which would unite the three districts under a new board with a $150,000 school to be constructed where Route 180 and 56 meet.

All three schools have small enrollments and the state department of education believes that the consolidation could reduce expenses and provide a better diversified course of study for the boys and girls. Present buildings could be used for elementary grades.

The Harrison township, Ross county, district, which combines with Adelphi, is opposed to the consolidation because of the long haul for pupils, and is not being counted in the consolidation plans at the present time.

Moscow Firmly Refuses To Withdraw Troops From Disputed Territory

sider Russia's rejection of the Japanese demand for withdrawal.

Moscow Awaits Move

MOSCOW, July 22.—(UP)—Russia awaited Japan's next move today in a new, grave diplomatic dispute, after refusing firmly a Japanese demand that Russian soldiers evacuate a lonely hill in the far East to which both nations claim title.

It was indicated that the government was determined to adhere to its stand despite a remark by Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japanese ambassador, to foreign commissar Maxim Litvinov, which was interpreted as a hint that Japan might seek to eject the Russians forcefully from the disputed hill.

Shigemitsu, returning hurriedly at the order of his government from a vacation abroad, saw Litvinov Wednesday. News of the visit, and the serious stage which the incident had reached, was announced last night in a long official communique. It was not until this morning when they read their newspapers, that Russian people realized that the recurrent tension in relations with Japan had been intensified to a high degree.

Situation Delicate

The delicacy of this new disagreement between Japan and Russia was shown plainly by the exchanges between Litvinov and Shigemitsu as given in substance in the Russian official communique.

Shigemitsu—Japan has decided that the disputed territory belongs to Manchukuo (Japan's satellite state formed from Chinese Manchuria). Responsibility for violation of the frontier status rests with Russia. Japan demands immediate withdrawal of the Russian troops.

Litvinov—The Russian claim to the hill is incontestable. Movements of Russian troops in Russian territory are regulated by Russian authorities and no interference by or demand of any other state can be permitted. Japan-Manchukuo will bear responsibility for any developments.

Shigemitsu—The Japanese government is not likely to be satisfied by this reply. It is necessary to take measures to restore calm and to discharge the atmosphere now created on the frontier. Otherwise Japan will be compelled to draw a conclusion about the necessity for applying force.

Demand Scorned

Litvinov—The demand to withdraw the Russian troops, not backed by any documents whatsoever, is unacceptable. If the ambassador regards as good diplomatic method threats and intimidation—of a sort which certain states, indeed, yield—he must know that he can not apply this method successfully in Moscow.

Litvinov blandly commented that "as distinct from other states," Russia maintains armies not in order to send them to foreign countries but exclusively for defense of its own frontiers.

To a protest by Shigemitsu of a Japanese gendarme who was reconnoitering near the disputed hill, he retorted:

"The Japanese gendarme was killed on Russian territory, where he had no business to be."

(On July 14 the Japanese Domei News Agency reported that a dozen Russian soldiers had crossed the Manchukuan frontier to a distance two miles inside Manchukuo; that the Manchukuan government protested; that Russia was strengthening her border defenses.

Next day a Japanese foreign office spokesman said 40 Russians were involved and were occupying a hill of military importance in the Possiet Bay area near the coast at a point where Siberian, Manchukuan and Korean borders meet. He said that the Japanese army in Manchukuo might attack if the

Fannie, Champion Rat Killer, Achieves Fame

Fannie, rat exterminator for the Container Corporation of America plant, Western avenue, wins national recognition this week in the current issue of Life magazine.

Fannie has one of the strangest jobs in dogdom. Not only can she claim the distinction of being the only dog regularly engaged in modern industry, but her career thus far could make even the Pied Piper of Hamelin take anxiously to his reputation.

The dog is no casual rodent exterminator who works when the spirit moves her. She works at it regularly and vigorously. Fannie gets record-breaking results, and her role in the general scheme of things is an important part of the operation of a great paper mill.

The Container Corporation plant is one of the larger strawboard mills in the United States. The straw, brought in by neighboring farmers, is baled and stacked in ricks, preparatory to being cooked, rolled and sheeted for corrugating material in boxes. These ricks, vast rectangular stacks of baled straw, rise to great heights, and are excellent breeding places for rats.

When the ricks are torn down the rat dwellers become a real problem. They must be exterminated—and as anyone who has known their vicious bites can well testify, that's no easy job. Here's where Fannie's job begins. When the workmen mount the ricks Fannie goes along. Their every movement is watched anxiously by the dog. Slowly the ricks dwindle as bales come tumbling down from the top. But these rats, especially the older ones, are not of the Hamelin variety. They don't rush out heedlessly; instead they scamper down between the bales until finally the rick is wholly demolished.

The Fannie goes into action! Swift as a mountain lion and relentless as a mongoose she plunges into the rodent horde. Ten, fifteen, forty-five minutes. Then, strewn lifeless on the battleground, are the casualties,—more than 100 rats!

Fannie is licensed and owned by the corporation. She's been faithfully at her job for more than two years. Unlike other industrial workers she has no social security card, no unemployment benefits, and no provision for her ripe years. Yet somehow it would be very difficult to believe that Fannie could ever be forgotten by the hundreds of fellow workers she so faithfully guards.

Corrigan sails from Quekstown (Cobb) a week from tomorrow aboard the United States liner Manhattan. He will arrive on August 5 in New York where "the poorest navigator in aviation's history," according to his own version of the amazing "mistake" flight, will be given a welcome in the New York manner.

When the 31-year-old Californian's plane was being placed aboard the Lehigh it was revealed that he flew the Atlantic sitting on a wooden box in a cramped position. When he arrived at Baldonnel airport he had to be lifted from the plane because his legs were numb to the knees. Airport workers rubbed his legs until circulation returned to them.

Asked whether the cramped position had affected his flying, Corrigan said:

"I'm a welder and I'm accustomed to sitting in cramped positions."

Corrigan's plane, "The Spirit of $69.60," almost was damaged while being loaded aboard the Lehigh. The flier was aboard the ship, his face covered with grease and oil, supervising the loading. One of the wings slipped from a sling and scraped on the dock. Corrigan dashed ashore excitedly, but was relieved to find the wing not damaged.

Russians did not withdraw. On July 18 the foreign office spokesman asserted that one of three Japanese gendarmes reconnoitering near the hill had been killed by the Russians July 15. On the night of July 19 Gen. Kazushige Ugaki, Japanese foreign minister, ordered the Japanese embassy at Moscow to protest strongly, and Ambassador Shigemitsu was ordered back there. The official Tass Agency at Moscow in a communique July 17 said the hill which the Russians had occupied was Russian and cited as proof a map attached to the Russian-Chinese treaty of Hun-chun concluded in 1869. Japan in turn cited old maps as showing that the territory was Manchukuan and said that further Korean villagers went there each year to hold their December and March festivals on the hill.

JOBLESS START FOREST FIRES

COURTENAY, B. C., July 22.—(UP)—Forestry department officials today charged that sabotage and incendiarism were responsible for the spread of a fire that swept toward this Vancouver island community after destroying the fishing resort of Forbes Landing.

A crew of more than 1,500 men fought the fire along a 20-mile front. Although it had been burning since July 5, it was not until a week ago that the flames got out of control and began their most serious devastation of timber, homes and logging camps.

Damage was incalculable. Authorities estimated that the loss to date has exceeded $300,000, and with each hour the amount was increasing.

It had been suspected for days that men who wanted work had started some of the fires. Today there was direct evidence of sabotage.

An Open Letter To Owners and Prospective Owners of Mechanical Refrigeration

Of all the questions brought up concerning household refrigeration we have found the one about the relative cost of operation to be the most outstanding. That question has proved a difficult one for us to answer with any degree of certainty.

A few weeks ago, however, a test was completed and the results made known by Consumers' Research, Inc. of Washington, N. J. For your enlightenment we quote herewith excerpts from the report of this concern, as follows:

"In the table given the monthly cost is determined for operating the refrigerator without opening the door."

"It has been learned from experience that the cost of operating a refrigerator loaded with food in the home and used under average conditions will often be close to the figures in the second column and usually not exceed the figures in the third column."

"The refrigerators used in the test were 5 cu. ft. models with the exception of Kelvinator, which was a 6 cu. ft. model."
